Notes about the UniSQ Academic Calendar in the Trimester layer for the School of Education:

Students are expected to study throughout the entire Study Period, with some of that study occurring during the in the Flexible Learning Period and the Enrichment Period.

Flexible Learning Period: Flexible Learning Periods are scheduled into the Trimester Study Periods. These weeks will contain no new teaching content. They may, however, include other learning components, such as professional experience placements, rehearsals, practical work or residential schools. Assessment may also be scheduled during this time.

Enrichment: the Enrichment Period (ENR) is scheduled when students are not attending professional experience. These weeks will contain no new content but will offer course-specific consolidation activities (such as revision or assessment support sessions) as well as an Enrichment program that includes learning which is not course specific. Sessions will address students' personal and professional capacity, develop discipline expertise and enhance employability.

As per the Student Placement Communication Flow chart placement information to be released 2 weeks prior to the commencement

Please note: information correct at time of circulation but subject to change (including course offerings).
