NOISE GENERATION AND DISTURBANCE

There have been several reported incidents of excessive noise in residential blocks. As examinations are drawing near and many students have a heavy assignment schedule, the generation of unnecessary noise must be avoided. You can help minimize noise by:

- Keeping your door closed when you have visitors.
- Not encouraging loud conversations in your room.
- Not slamming doors
- Closing doors to Common Rooms.
- Adhering to the procedures regarding the conduct of block parties.

Loud music is a form of noise pollution and can be very annoying in a high density living environment. If you have developed a taste for loud music, you must use headphones. Additionally, residents' rooms are not the appropriate venues for parties.

Your co-operation in these matters would be appreciated by your fellow residents.
